Minister opens hospital wing

Fifty guests attended the official opening last Sunday of the $72,000 extensions to Altona District Hospital by the Minister for Health, Mr. Rossiter.

The open-air ceremony marked the culmination of months of hard work by the hospital president, Mr. Bob Stringer, hospital manager, Mr. Peter Dwyer, hospital staff and community service groups who took on the task of raising $32,000 towards the project. The Hospital and Charities Commission contributed $40,000.

Mr. Rossiter was welcomed by the mayor of Altona, Cr. Harry Weaver, who built the new wing.

He said congratulations were in order for both the work being done and the work that was obviously planned by the hospital supporters.

"I congratulate you on your forward thinking," he said.

"Williamstown and Altona always seem to be on the end of the line for things like this and the amount of self help that has gone into this project requires some recognition from our Government.

ANOTHER HOSPITAL?

Mr. Rossiter said the prospect of building another major western suburban hospital would be looked at soon.

He anticipated that the land in Millers Road, Altona North set aside by the Hospital and Charities Commission would be utilised by about 1982.

"At the moment we have extensions being made to Footscray hospital," he said.

"And today we are concerned with the extensions to this maternity hospital in Altona.

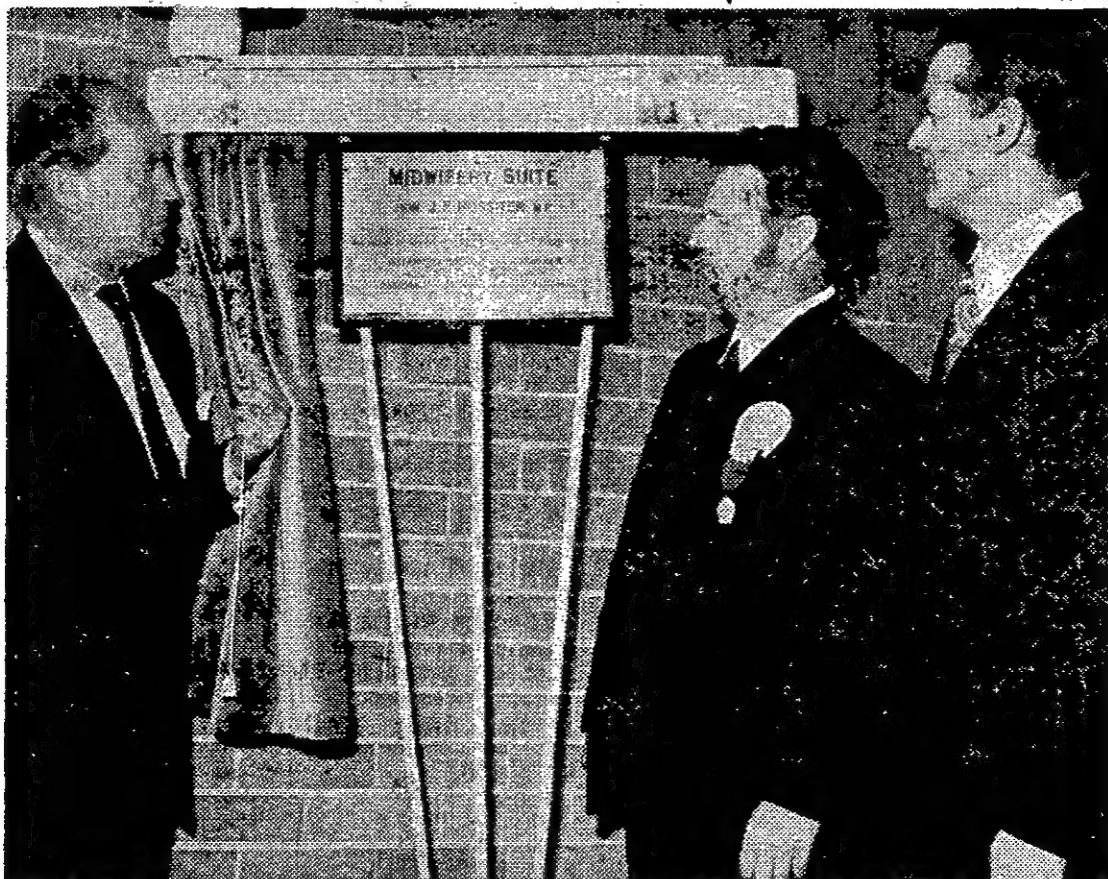

"You people have shown that you're prepared to help yourselves and in the same way the Hospital and Charities Commission through local government has shown that it cares."

STARTED AT 10 BEDS

Master of ceremonies at the official opening was the hospital president, Mr. Bob Stringer.

Welcoming his guests, Mr. Stringer said the hospital had been opened in 1938 with 10 beds.

"It is now a 21-bed hospital handling 1200 patients a year meaning that one in every 28 people in Altona use it every year," he said. Mr. Stringer said he had led a deputation to Mr. Rossiter two and a half years ago in an attempt to accelerate the building of a major hospital in Altona North.

COMMITTEE FORMED

"We were informed by the Minister that other municipalities had priority and so we decided to improve the facilities at our existing hospital," said Mr. Stringer.

Mr. Stringer said a hospital services committee had been formed by local services groups to assist in raising the community's contribution to the new wing.

The mayor of Altona, Cr. Weaver, officially welcomed Mr. Rossiter. Cr. Weaver said that Mr. Rossiter had inspected the hospital 18 months ago with Dr. Leyden and some "pushing" by him accounted in part for the fact that Altona's shopping centre and hospital would soon be fully sewered.

After Mr. Rossiter had opened the new wing, Cr. Weaver was called on to hand over the keys of the building.

Guests were then invited to inspect the new wing and be served with refreshments in the Altona Elderly Citizens Hall.

'Speed caused accidents'

Recent motor accidents in Kororoit Creek Road have been caused by motorists exceeding the speed limit according to Cr. Bill Sommers who holds the portfolio for transport and communications on Altona Council.

Deputy Mayor

Cr. Charlie Carlsson is nominated and would serve the city well.

The Mayor of Altona, Cr. Harry Weaver said that after seeing the way Cr. Carlsson conducted the junior council meetings he would certainly be calling on his deputy "quite a deal".

Before his election, Cr. Carlsson said he was honored to have been

At a recent meeting of Altona Council, Cr. Sommers said council was endeavoring to decrease accidents at the intersection of Kororoit Creek Road and Grieve Parade by duplicating Grieve Parade north of the intersection and placing yield signs at the intersection. Speed limit signs reading 45 miles per hour were also being put up along Kororoit Creek Road, Cr. Sommers said.

SHAME on us, we forgot to mention that Altona's Deputy Town Clerk, Don Woods, recently became a proud father for the first time when his wife Penny presented him with a 3500 gram son, Bryan Matthew Barry. In case you're not quite with the metric system Matthew weighed a healthy seven pounds eleven and a half ounces.

ALTONA WEST'S answer to Sweeney Todd, Mick Italia has already earned a reputation for shooting (shotguns) and hairdressing, now he's supplementing his income as a crowd controlling engineer at the Totty Hotel. Likewise Alan Tipping has decided that rodeo riding isn't the only way to earn dough and he's working at the Central.

CR. HARRY WEAVER may go down in history as Altona's most jovial mayor, he always raises a laugh. At the official opening of the hospital extensions on Sunday he continually referred to hospital president, Bob Stringer as "Chairman Bob" (probably thinking of his days in the Apex Club). And when he had to hand over the key to the extensions he had built, Bob Stringer made the comment that the Mayor had probably handed over the wrong key.

LOCAL POLICE HEAD TALKS

30 years' experience

The new Chief Inspector at Altona Police Station, Mr. Albert Liddell, 50, joined the police force 30 years ago, because "it was the only opportunity open for an ambitious person".

Although his job has been dangerous at times and he's had several close brushes with death, Inspector Liddell would choose his work again if he had a second chance.

Inspector Liddell is responsible for the supervision of the new division at Altona police station, which covers Altona, Laverton and Werribee.

He has 35 men working for him.

"We hope to give more policing to the beach front this summer," Inspector Liddell said.

"The public should not be subjected to larrikinism."

Before coming to Altona, Inspector Liddell did mostly plain clothes CIB work at the Fraud Squad in Russell Street, where he worked for the past 12 months.

"Criminal investigation work is more demanding than any other," Inspector Liddell said.

"You succeed where the criminals fail — they leave clues behind."

"You catch them with the help of witnesses or by tracing the lost property back to them."

"Catching my first murderer was quite easy. We had to sit in a house and wait for him to come home."

"The most usual motive for murder is vengeance over personal differences."

Inspector Liddell has nothing but praise for female detectives.

"They're very satisfactory, they're able to move in certain areas more inconspicuously than a man would," he said.

"Also, they're helpful in apprehending women offenders and dealing with abandoned children."

Inspector Liddell says

hold-ups are more common than in the past.

"They were almost non-existent 20 years ago. Specific crimes move in cycles, but the increase in crimes may be partly due to the increase in population."

"Any person could become a criminal if he thinks money could be gotten more easily by crime than by working for it."

"The qualities a policeman needs are ambition, aptitude for work and study, and an ability to get along with members of the public."

"A lot of people come in just for advice."

Inspector Liddell says he learns a lot about human nature in his job, but he "never learns all about it."

"We know how criminals are going to work, but we don't know when," he said.

Inspector Liddell is married with a daughter and two sons.

"I never discuss my work at home," he said.

"I have a clear conscience and I can forget about work when I'm home."

THE NATURAL THING

When nobody's nose knows...

It suits the managements of chemical plants that most of the complaints they receive about offensive odors are subjective and vague.

In turn, their actions to rectify the situation can be equally vague. And, being so, much less costly to them.

For what chance in court, where one day we hope sizeable fines will be levied on this crowd, does an irate citizen have against a company lawyer who relentlessly elicits from the complainant the confession: "No, I'm not sure the odor came from your plant".

Yet, paradoxically, several of them resort to exactly the same subjective measurement as part of their contribution to environmental preservation.

It seems that on each shift a man is delegated to ascertain the impact his plant's pollutants are having on the town of Altona.

The employee's job is to travel around to a series of checkpoints. On arrival at the various points he is required to rate the odor nil, low, fair or high. This man will carry no sophisticated technical device to obtain a scientific reading. His resort will be his nose — his noble hooter.

The situation smacks of the primeval. The Moon is up, a howling wind sweeps over the town. At the checkpoint our environmental watchdog raises his hairy nostrils on high and does not bay mind you — he SNIFFS.

This, surely, as we have previously seen in companies' arguments against the unreliability of this kind of evidence, is not good enough.

Objections to such a procedure are manifold. The man may have a cold or throat infection, and therefore little sensitivity to odor.

Grit, on the other hand, may be so impacted in his nostrils, due of course to his diligence to the production process, that his nose is by-passed in favor of his mouth. Or his throat and nasal passages grown so metallically insensitive after years of close proximity to powerful chemical odors, they are incapable detectors.

Such a man has so much responsibility, so little resource. His management is treating him as if he were infallible.

For even when a particular plant is responsible for an odor that is consistently discernible for a period of weeks, its responsible executives themselves cannot explain it when questioned.

At first, a thoughtful concerned look firms their tired faces, which is followed in turn by a vague expression in the eyes, somehow suggestive of a verbal "it's quite impossible that we", and then a mouth sagging radiant eyed "you're quite mad you know" flickers across these rubbery easels of emotion.

It cannot be that this is so, for well trained personnel must be thoroughly familiar with the production process of their plant, and equally familiar with the breakdowns, overcooking and consequent smells about their factory.

It is an enigma, a baffling mystery that such people can measure and count, with the best when product is at stake, yet when they come to that other less savory part of production pie, pollution, they are not nearly so exact.

North police station: when? what?

Mr. Alex Knight, member for Melbourne West, asked the Minister for Local Government, Mr. Hunt, last week several questions about the proposed new Altona North police station.

He asked:

- When would work on the station start?
- What was envisaged about the station's operation and what area it was proposed to serve?

● Would the station's operation be affected by the recent decision to enlarge the Sunshine and St. Albans' police area?

Mr. Hunt replied: "this project, which provides for a police district headquarters complex, including a 24-hour police station, has been designed by the Treasury as 'schematic design' in the police works' and services' programme for 1972/73.

"However, the Chief Secretary has requested the Public Works Department to expedite the preparation of a detailed estimate with a view to having the work commenced as soon as possible.

"The police station will provide a 24-hour coverage of the municipality of Altona."

Mr. Hunt said also that the station's operation would not be affected by the new Sunshine and St. Albans areas.

GMH AND ISUZU GET TOGETHER

'Pop-up' van the star

One of the highlights of this year's Melbourne Caravan Show is a revolutionary new design in the light, easy-to-tow, erection type folding caravan, built by Country Campers, of Dandenong.

The new "pop up" van embodies all the facilities of a full-size conventional van, yet travels with the ease of a car trailer.

A new concept in folding caravans, this unit does away with canvas walls, which are replaced with solid, yet light folding sides in timber, and topped with an insulated fibreglass roof.

Finish to the unit is faultless, cupboard and storage space is more than adequate, even for the larger families, furniture is well chosen and tradesman fitted.

Travelling height is below the back of a car and slightly wider. Site erection takes five minutes only, and interior space is more plentiful than the majority of four-berth caravans on the market. Forget insects and dust.

Caravan minded or motel conscious, visit Country Campers on Stand No. 55, or give them a ring on 791 2595. Their showrooms are on Cranbourne Road, Dandenong, 600 yards on the left over the railway line.

MCLEOD EARLY FAVORITE IN DULUX RALLY

Dulux rally headquarters in Sydney is now receiving increasing numbers of entries for the great event which will start in Brisbane, on October 9.

The ratio between inquiries and actual entries is astounding the director, Tom Snooks, who did not expect the "flood" to begin until late September.

Professional preparation expert and semi-professional driver, Stewart McLeod, from Adelaide, has entered the latest Holden Torana XU-1.

McLeod finished third in the all-star field at Adelaide International Raceway recently, taking a good points score in the opening round of the manufacturers' championship.

Only the two Holden dealer team Toranas of Colin Bond and Peter Brock were good enough to beat the South Australian star.

With a wealth of experience behind him, McLeod must start the Dulux rally as favorite.

The London-Sydney marathon, the 1972 East African safari, the international BP rallies and numerous other world class events have paved this driver's way to his present position.

In the inaugural Dulux rally last year, Stewart finished third outright, realising at the time that he had been at a disadvantage in the track events.

In order to overcome this deficiency he has been entering as many races as possible so that he is now a serious threat to the Holden dealer team.

The McLeod entry will be co-driven by star navigator Adrian Mortimer who has accompanied Stewart in many of his most successful events.

Preparation of the Dulux rally Torana is being undertaken by McLeod himself at his Daw Park rally preparation centre.

Entries for the Dulux rally close on October 2, at which time it is anticipated there will be well in excess of 60 cars and crews ready to contest the demanding 2400 mile rally/race combination.

New truck range hits the market

GM-H has announced a major expansion of its Bedford commercial vehicle range with the introduction of 10 new models manufactured by Isuzu Motors Limited of Japan.

GM-H's managing director, Mr. A. G. Gibbs, said the move followed an agreement last year in which General Motors acquired a 34.2 per cent. interest in Isuzu.

The new vehicles (pictured above) will be marketed in Australia as 'Bedford by Isuzu' by selected Bedford dealers.

The range includes four light trucks in the 6000 to 13000 gross vehicles weight class, a 20 passenger bus, a small dumper, a medium duty diesel-powered truck, two heavy duty diesel trucks, one of them with tandem steering and a high powered semi-trailer tractor with tandem drive.

"The Isuzu manufactured vehicles have been carefully chosen to complement the existing Bedford range," said Mr. Gibbs. "The combination provides GM-H with high quality, competitive vehicles in all sections of the commercial market."

He said Isuzu trucks were well-known throughout the world for their rugged construction, durability, performance, serviceability and driver comfort and convenience.

Friday, September 22 will long be remembered by almost 500 Aztec fans who flocked to Werribee last week to see the incredible Billy Thorpe.

I can recall few dances when the crowd has enjoyed itself so much. Even before Thorpe took the stage the two supporting acts, Poltergeist and Bulk Hassles, received tumultuous applause for their efforts, and when free Billy Thorpe photos and records were thrown out to them the spectators went hysterical.

Despite their enthusiasm the crowd behaved extremely well and generally participated with the bands when requested to do so.

From the promoters' point of view the size of the crowd was disappointing as an attendance of about 1000 had been anticipated for the Aztecs. It was obviously the change to a Friday night that did it. Maybe the Sunday night thing wasn't such a bad idea after all.

POP STAR — with Ron Coleman

The dance last Friday had to compete with the Show and a pop concert in the city. But one cannot complain when considering that not much more than 100 people turned out to see Normie Rowe at the Tarmac Hotel on the same night.

The next dance at Werribee could be on a Sunday night again with the change to a Friday

SON and BLACK FEATHER?

More happenings will also take place at Williamstown and Altona North, monthly.

Getting back to the dance last Friday, Altona heavy rock band, Poltergeist, put up a sterling performance and overcame the public address system hassle to really win the crowd who gave them a rousing reception.

Likewise, Bulk Hassles, a new six-piece band from Williamstown, really grabbed the crowd with their act, which features two drummers, a trumpeter, a pianist, and two guitarists.

Take it from me, this group is really going to go places in the not too distant future.

Meanwhile, more pop gossip in the west. Nedge (Altona's answer to Cat Stevens) has renounced his career as a soloist and joined Brooklyn group Lucyfur.

Ex-Vehicle member, Scotty (Adrian) seen trying his luck at the Tarmac last Saturday night.

Lucyfur to run their own dances again in Brooklyn. . . big new pop happenings for Altona North. . . Ray Evans of the Australian Entertainment Exchange has returned from his lightning world tour with his wife Lisa and a briefcase full of contracts for overseas groups, some of which may appear at suburban dance venues. . . Billy Thorpe's booking fee to go up following his appearance at Werribee. Apparently he drew a crowd of 1500 at Headquarters, Dandenong, recently. . . AEE is being plagued with calls about CARSON'S new album, which is due to be released soon. . . Meanwhile Teddy Dellemyn is still going great guns with his Spinifex Music Store in Williamstown.

That's all for this week. Bye now, RON.

WILHELMINA, HAKOAH TO WIN IN CUP

By LAURIE SCHWAB

Wilhelmina and Hakoah should join Alexander and George Cross in the Dockerty Cup quarter-finals after Sunday's matches at Olympic Park.

Wilhelmina will meet Melbourne in the 1.30 p.m. match followed by the clash between Hakoah and the ailing Juventus.

George Cross and Alexander qualified for the quarter finals last Sunday by beating Polonia and Ajax respectively.

Hakoah is an obvious winner against Juventus because the Italian-sponsored team has been sliding downhill rapidly.

In a recent friendly match it barely managed to beat Fourth Division club Triestina 2-1.

Hakoah, on the other hand, finished the season on a high note, winning its last three matches.

Mike Clarey came back to life in the match against George Cross, when he scored two goals in the 3-1 victory.

Hakoah narrowly missed out on a place in the top four and will be trying to atone by winning the Dockerty Cup, although Hellas is a red-hot favorite.

The predication that Wilhelmina will beat Melbourne is an adventurous one.

It could be argued that Melbourne has benefited from the classy opposition it had in the interstate series.

However, it is also true that during that series, Melbourne was forced to play ultra-defensively due to the loss of both Ken McDonald and Alistair Scott.

If the team opens up in the hope of beating Wilhelmina, the weakened defence will become vulnerable to tough striker Peter Ollerton and his henchmen Brian Thom and Freddy Bunce, backed up by Bobby Smith and Dave Pygall.

These are the circumstances in which Wilhelmina will win.

Results

Last Sunday's Dockerty Cup results:

Alexander 2 (Xanthopoulos penalty, Kriaris) d. Ajax 1 (Segi) after extra time. Best players, Alexander: Karapatsos, Xanthopoulos. Ajax: F. Berens, C. Vella, Kolbl.

George Cross 2 (Walker, Gardiner) d. Polonia 1 (Adamczyk), after extra time. Best players, George Cross: Ricks, Walktr, Kelly. Polonia: Horfiniak, Jaworski, Olinowski.

Federation Cup

Altona became a Federation Cup finalist when it beat Altona Rovers 3-0 at Churchill Reserve, St. Albans, last Saturday.

Altona adjusted well to a strong gale blowing straight down the ground, and used it to aid quick breakaways.

All the goals came in the first half, through Mick Micevski, Bruce Roberts and Nat Little.

Albion held a slight edge in the second half but its forwards were not good enough to beat tough Altona defenders Ian Hynes, Craig Copley, Keith Murray and John Collins.

Willy Cerny showed a lot of class in midfield but did not seem to be having a particularly good day.

In attack, 15-year-old Bruce Roberts showed a lot of promise. When he learns to stop and control the ball better he'll be tops.

The much older Albion team was well served by centre half George Bryce and half back Bill Kane. Gordon Douglas also had a good match, defending well in the first half and doing his best when switched to attack later.

Young Angus Norris showed a lot of promise but was often indecisive in critical situations in the penalty area.

However, the best individual performance came from veteran Billy Cree who replaced Bobby Keenan at half time.

Coming in at right back, Cree dominated the entire flank, running tirelessly on overlapping runs to spur on his attack.

Altona's Federation Cup final opponent will be Slavia, which last week beat Frankston 3-1 with two goals by Bobby Kent, and one by Jim Train. Peter Avent scored for Frankston from the penalty spot.

Armstrong Cup

Saturday's Armstrong Cup matches, with likely winners in capitals:

AUSTRIA v. Moreland, FOOTSCRAY J.U.S.T. v. Juventus, WILHELMINA v. Springvale.

Armstrong Cup results: Quarter-finals: Hakoah 6, Dandenong 3. Second round replays: Polonia 1, Austria 2, Slavia 1, J.U.S.T. 2.

Mini-bike club for Altona

A mini-bike club is being formed in Altona.

An interim committee has been set up and hopes to attract membership of all mini-bike owners in the Altona area.

The committee's treasurer, Mr. Edward Byrne, said yesterday the committee had asked Altona Council to provide land for a mini-bike track.

He said most mini-bike enthusiasts in the district currently rode on the part of the old Williamstown Racecourse known as "The Pines."

But this land has been reserved for a golf course and mini-bike riders could soon be kicked off.

Mr. Byrne said: "Hundreds of kids will be pushed on to the streets."

"If they are not given somewhere else to ride, someone is going to be killed."

Mr. Byrne said the police were supporting the proposal to form a club.

He urged all mini-bike owners in the district to contact him (397 5461) and become members of the new club.

No membership fee will be charged.

MAROONS IN THE GRAND FINAL

Altona Soccer Club, with a tremendous three goals to nil victory over Altona Rovers last weekend, will play Prahran Slavia in the cup final at Olympic Park at 1 p.m. on Sunday.

Prahran have experience and Altona have youth — Roberts, 16, Little, 16, Micevski, 17 and Collins, 18.

It was Roberts, Micevski, and Little who slammed home the three goals against Rovers, ending any hopes of their victory in the first half. The match was played on the St. Albans ground.

Altona produced a superb brand of soccer, with Healey, Hynes and Cherney steadying the entire team and the younger brigade tearing open the tight and experienced opposing defence.

Little rounded the keeper only to see his parking shot cleared off the line. Vanderpole, who always plays well on the Albion ground, made absolutely sure that last Saturday was no exception.

He played confidently and troubled the opposing forwards. Copley and Collins blended together magnificently, along with Murray, tackling hard and fast.

Cherney picked up a pass from Collins, swung it on to Micevski and the mickey boy unleashed an unsavable drive from 15 yards out.

Not a keeper around would have any chance at stopping such a shot — it flashed high into the corner of the net and put Altona one goal in the lead.

Roberts slipped the ball past the advancing goal keeper and Altona led 2-nil.

Vanderpole, at the other end foiled a scoring effort before the dynamic Hat Little raced in, eluded two defenders and side footed the third into the net.

The second half did not go to further the score but players kept contesting and Little and Taylor were unlucky to miss goals.

It was a fine exhibition and supporters were happy after the game — something which is not always easily achieved.

Next week, win or lose, it will be a great match and the men who wear the Maroon and Gold are confident of bringing the Federation Cup to Kim's Reserve.

SCOTS ACCEPT A LESSON

Altona table tennis team, Scots, accepted advice from past president and Life Member, Frank Werner, when he awarded the team his trophy for the most outstanding in the pennant year, 1972-73.

Pictured (l. to r.) Frank Werner, Ian Miller, Steven Parkin, Andy Carabott. Team captain, Jim Robertson is not pictured.

The presentation was held in the Banquet Hall of the Altona Central Hotel, September 15. Included among the guests were the Mayor and Mayoress, Cr. and Mrs. Weaver.

The Altona Central Hotel trophy to the best junior team was won by J. Bennett, J. O'Sullivan and M. Shaw.

It's not for men only

Have you been hesitating about taking up photography because you are a woman?

Do technical terms worry you?

If so, you are missing a lot of joy in life.

Photography is a hobby that should have particular appeal to women.

They can capture a growing family on film and as women see more of their children than men, they have more opportunities for bringing out the best in a child.

And how about the prize flowers in the garden?

If your husband, brother or boyfriend is a camera fan, don't try to wear him away.

In the first place, it cannot be done, and secondly you will get more enjoyment working with him.

You may even turn out to be the better photographer.

Your local camera club has a place for you at meetings conducted in the Methodist Church Hall.

The entire team performed well. Best and fairest awards were presented to Anna Fitzpatrick (1st team) and Jane Morse (2nd team).

Geoff Warren wins silver and two bronze in Cologne

VETERAN TAKES GAMES MEDALS

Veteran Williamstown athlete Geoff Warren won a silver and two bronze medals at the world veteran games held in Cologne, Germany, shortly after the Olympics.

Representatives from more than 20 nations took part. Geoff represented Australia at the Empire Games several years ago, and once held the Australian three-mile and six-mile records.

In the 5000-metre Geoff finished second in the fast time of 15:4.2 — a great effort on a track breaking up due to cold weather.

The time is an Australian veteran's record over 5000 metres.

Later, he started in the 1500-metre, but tired to run fourth in 4:09.3, six seconds behind the leader.

Earlier this year he ran 4:8.0 at Melbourne University.

Two medals captured and the third to come.

Geoff ran the fourth leg in the 4 x 100-m. relay, which won his team a bronze medal.

Competing in another 5000-m. race he ran third.

On the final day Geoff competed in the 15,000-m. forest run — a race he describes as the most satisfying.

All athletes — vintage, veteran or young — are eligible to enter. Geoff ran fourth.

Meanwhile, back home in Williamstown, another veteran won the men's 50-kilometres (31 miles).

Ted ran in 4 hrs. 4 min. 40 sec., almost 15 minutes ahead of his nearest rival.

Ted has won more Victorian titles than any other athlete.

Williamstown Athletic Club's training schedule has been changed to Tuesday, Thursday and Sunday at the Newport Clubrooms.

Track and field trials are held on Sundays, at 10 a.m.

Cricketers to meet Werribee

Williamstown Cricket Club will meet Werribee in a practice match at Williamstown on Sunday.

With the return of former top players, Jeff Horsborough and Graeme Coulston and the signing of many recruits, the club has the nucleus of a premiership side.

The first game is against Hawthorn-East Melbourne at St. James Park, Hawthorn, on Saturday week.

President Peter Burnett told parents and friends of the club that the team spirit and will to win displayed by the boys in the final series was in the finest tradition of the game.

A fitting climax to the season was the recent weekend trip to Echuca when the team was guest of the Echuca Football Club.
